Seventy-Years of Dedication

Whereas: Long Beach Polytechnic High School was Long Beach's first high school and is almost as old as the city itself;

Whereas: Many Poly graduates have gained distinguished recognition in Long Beach and throughout the World;

Whereas: Many Long Beach city officials and civic leaders have also graduated from Poly;

Whereas: This community has provided a place of opportunity for Poly students throughout the years;

Whereas: The occasion of our anniversary should be expressed not only on our campus but throughout the city at large;

It is hereby resolved that the Caerulea, commemorating the 75th anniversary of Polytechnic Senior High School, be dedicated to the City of Long Beach.

Looking Back at Three Quarters

Three quarters of a century and eight principals . . . An earthquake which in 1933 left the school virtually demolished and one, ironically, in 1971 which left the school unscathed . . .

An athletic record unsurpassed anywhere, with 33 CIF champions . . .

A group of illustrious graduates, including business leaders, entertainment personalities, athletic heroes, leaders for almost every walk of life . . .

Founders rock, which will always remain the same, representing an unchanging dedication to learning at a time when the only constant is change . . .

Finally a mosaic from the world of 1935, a relic of Poly's past, bearing an inscription which over the decades has taken on a new connotation . . .

Century of Leadership, of permanence, of change

As in the days of 1908, Poly curriculum has been continually changing to relate to the interests of its students. Poly grads of yesteryear may remember boys enrolled in homemaking busily cooking a meal, and such classes as mandatory Latin and Greek, which have since disappeared from the high school curriculum. College preparatory classes, Radio and T.V. workshop, and Black Studies are but a few of the many opportunities available to today's student.

The 1970's have seen changes not only in the student's interests but also in the value placed on teacher-pupil relationships. The teacher is no longer a dictator but a coworker who will guide students toward their goals.

Student Life — Then

There are some things which will inevitably change; one needs not to look far at 1971 Poly to see the differences between the Poly of today and Long Beach High School of the past. Certain things remain, however, things which time can never change. Spirit. It's hard to define. You can't see it with your eyes or touch it with your hands. Much has been said about it in the past seventy-five years when referring to Poly's students. At times it is obvious, a football game, the cheerleaders, the crowd cheering the team on to victory. At other times it is the quiet spirit of a student studying on the lawn. Enthusiasm. Putting your whole being into a task. For three quarters of a century this has been happening and continues to happen at Poly.

Community concern resulted in the creation of the Poly Parent-Teacher Association in 1910, the first of its kind in California. Activities sponsored by the school organization and supported by the students did much to promote unity and spirit in the student body and to set the traditions that are observed today. In fifty-seven years, Girls' League has probably affected more people than any other club on the Poly campus. As old clubs die out, new organizations fill the gap. Today Brotherhood of Races, Polyethnic Folk Group and Poly Community Interracial Committee are working hard at building better relations between people.

"Old Timers" Log Almost Seven Centuries

To many people thirty years seems an incredibly long time to stay in the same school; but a high school is not the same year after year. For example, here at Poly many beautiful new buildings have been built, and there have been thrilling C.I.F. wins to witness, fine operettas, concerts and plays to enjoy in very special ways because they were produced by the students I have known. I will always remember with pleasure the friendliness and enthusiasm of the students at Poly High

Vivian Lemon

Polytechnic High School equals Success, Pride and Happiness. Her past is steeped in rich heritage and tradition, her present is filled with fruitful activity and challenge, and her future will be a continuation of her glorious achievements. The friendliness, togetherness, sincerity, dedication, and loyalty of her Administration, Faculty, and Student Body are the virtues that have endeared Polytechnic High School to her Alumni and Community.

Emily Hartmann Arnold

"We live in deeds, not in years, in thoughts, not in breaths, in feelings, not in figures on a dial." After reading this inscription on the Poly 100 building for the first time in 1946, I knew this was the place for me. I have never regretted this decision.

My greatest feeling about Poly has to be the "enthusiasm" I have found here. 1959 and 1960 brought to Poly 4 CIF Varsity Championships—Football, Basketball, Track and Golf. What a beautiful sight to see this at one time in one place. It is said that "History repeats itself." Though I am not one to live in the past, I as a former Poly Coach, for 22 years, eagerly look forward to the future when again these and other great events become realities. Thanks for allowing me to be among you for the past 25 years.

Leon Q. Forman

As I think back over the years of my teaching career at Poly, I will always cherish the thrill and excitement each fall with the appearance of new faces, interesting personalities, and rewarding endeavors in the field of Home Economics. To see the progress that has been made at Poly each year, additional buildings, the extensive curriculum development has been a joy to me in my years of service. I shall look forward to meeting Poly graduates in the future years, as I have in the past.

Three years at Poly as a student and twenty-one years as a teacher means that I have spent half of my life here. I came to Poly in 1950 as a Social Studies Teacher and since coached football, basketball, baseball and golf.

Every year has been a challenge and an enjoyable one. I would not have traded these past twenty-one years for anything.
Sam Dimas

I am probably the only rodeo rider turned gold miner turned gardener to be found at Poly. Since 1942 I have worked for the Long Beach Unified School District with time off to serve in World War II. To the students, I am a familiar sight, working mostly in the north half of the quadrangle. I am responsible for mowing all grass areas of the school, and for marking the athletic fields. For hobbies I repair clocks, target practice and make sandcast candles. Sometimes I even do some gardening around my house. I have two children who attended Jordan because that's where we live. Me? I am for Poly!

Poly Boasts a List of Illustrious Grads

It is fitting that in this, Poly's seventy-fifth year, a sprinkling of its illustrious graduates be honored. Selection of Honor Grads was supervised by a special student council committee, headed by seniors Kay Pilcher and Paul Lambrakis under the direction of Ross H. Shickler, Activities Director. Suggestions were received from Poly's student body, faculty and alumni in the Long Beach community. The criteria for the final selections include areas of success, era of graduation, male and female grads, ethnic background, and names familiar to the committee and the Long Beach community. Although it is realized that not all of the distinguished graduates can be honored per se, it is hoped that these selected few represent as many graduates as possible.

"Students Face Life Realities"—Du Bois

"Polytechnic High School, in its 75th year, offers an educational experience unequaled by any school in the city. Nowhere else is it possible to see the traditions and heritage of a glorious past combining with the challenging needs of the present. Poly, with its multi-ethnic student body, enhanced by a rich and varied cultural heritage, provides a living laboratory for its students and presents them life experiences that students at other schools are forced to read about or view from a distance via television or the movie screen. This store of experiences becomes a real asset in preparing these connected with Poly for whatever life may bring.

"In many ways Poly becomes a new school every year. There are new people, and there are new situations. It is not possible to confront the present with formulas of the past. Thus, change is a constant factor at Poly. In fact, change is inevitable if the unique challenges brought by each new year are to be met. Even so it takes a great deal of courage to face the problems of this fast moving world and to resolve them; but Courage has always been synonymous with the School of Scholars and Champions. It remains the keystone of its greatness in its 75th year."

Counseling Undergoes Change

Poly had more personnel connected with counseling during the school year of 1970-71 than ever before. Still, the demands on Bill Miller and his staff were especially heavy. The year began with adjustments in scheduling due to the organization of classes implemented as a result of Senate Bill 1, an educational act which will bring about radical changes in the curriculums of California Schools. The beginning days of school year were just a little more than hectic—to say the least.

Due to the larger staff, counselors at Poly are able to become more individually involved with students than their counterparts at other Long Beach High Schools. The need for this kind of closer relationship is also greater at this central city school. With a minority enrollment of some 45%, the job of counseling is far more complex than elsewhere. Along with traditional duties—program building, teacher-parent relations, etc.—Poly counselors must be able to cope with educational and vocational problems of Black, Brown and other minority students.

Art Is Expression

Art is a creation from the Soul. This year many Poly students are taking advantage of the various art and creative classes to express themselves in a constructive way. One of the best art departments in Long Beach, classes are offered in cartooning, pottery and sculpture, jewelry, advertising art, crafts, drawing and painting and gallery. Art at Poly is unique in that each person brings part of himself and his culture into his work.

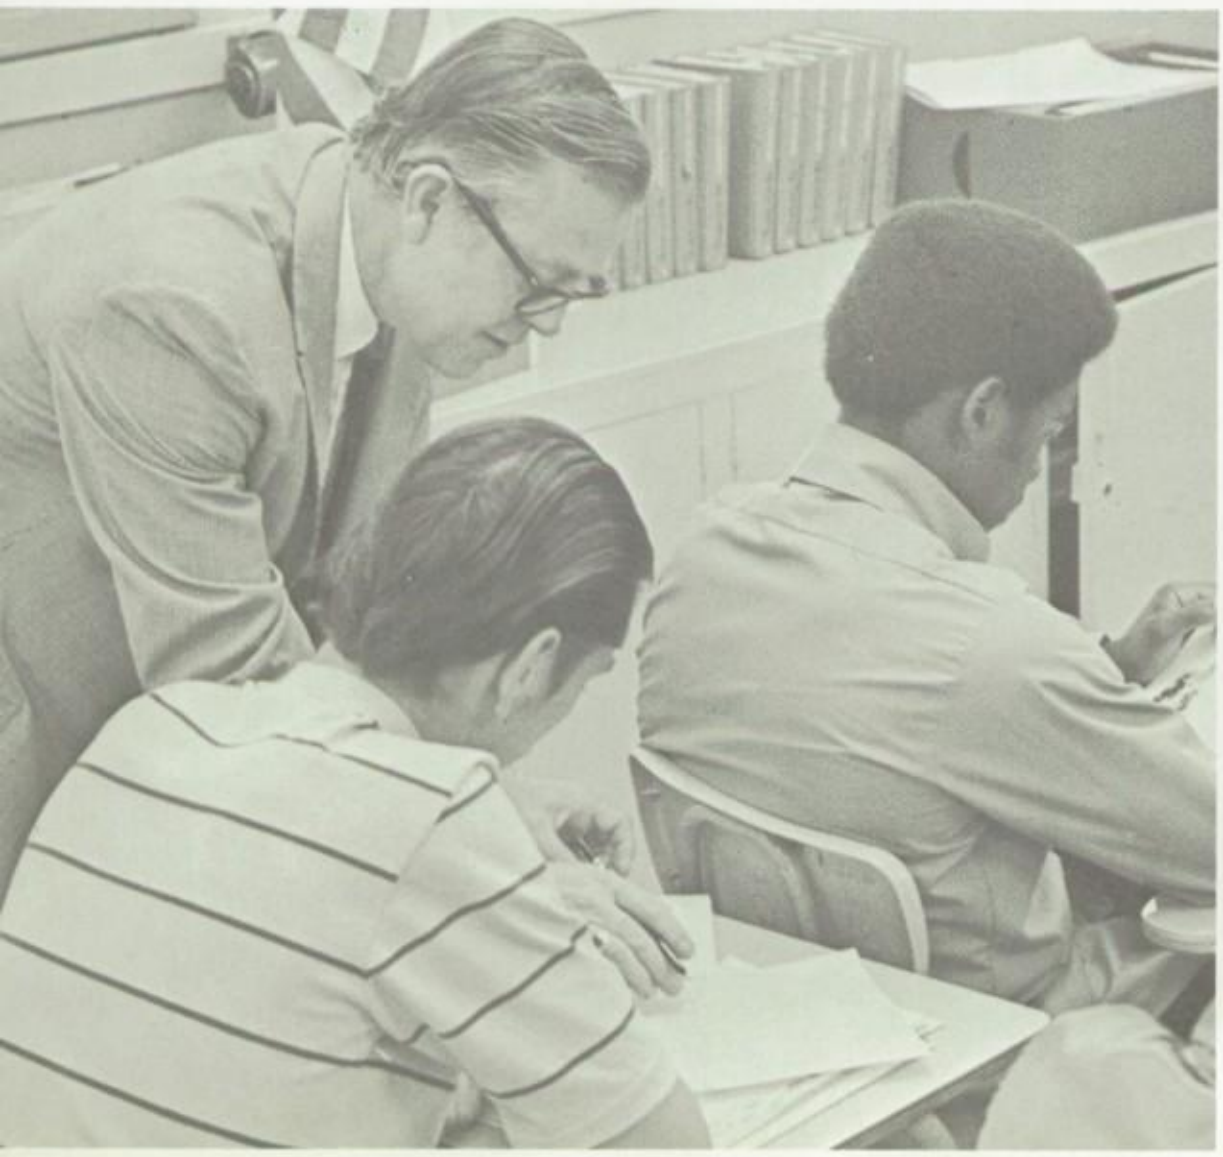
English Most Affected by Passage of SB-1



Reading is the root of knowledge.

The department most affected by the implementation of Senate Bill 1 this year was English. This was especially the case at the senior level where the whole format of instruction underwent radical changes. First, most of the traditional classes were now conducted on a quarterly rather than a semester basis, and the content was approached through nine week units that bore such titles as, "Courage", "The Literature of Love", "The Bible as Literature", "Mass Media" etc.

A significant organizational change took place at mid-year when the 11th and 12th grade departments were consolidated and brought under the direction of Elizabeth Loughran. Lucy Wadleigh remained as head of 10th grade English.

Most important in the overall picture, however, were the benefits derived by the students from changes in the curriculum. Flexibility and consideration of student interests were the keynotes. Educational opportunities for Poly students were enhanced by implementation of classes in creative arts, creative writing, film analysis, technical writing, issues in American literature and others.

Business Ed Helpful on Jobs and Classes

The courses which students were offered in Business Education helped them to prepare for careers in the business world as well as to aid them in their private studies. Introduction to business, record keeping, bookkeeping, business law, distributive education, applied sales (Student Store), stenography laboratory and vocational typing could be taken to meet present day standards of work which are demanded by business. Courses in office practice included a special class — cooperation office. Knowledge of typing and shorthand are not only marketable skills but also helps students to perform better in their classes, especially when encountering fast-talking teachers or instructors who plainly need glasses.

Social Studies: The Proper Study of Man

Social Studies classes seek to study man in all places and in all times. Man's behavior is observed through cultural patterns, economic conditions, his political institutions, as well as through his geographical environment. In the 10th grade students at Poly learn about world problems and personal matters regarding possible careers. They are also required to take Driver's Education. In the 11th grade the emphasis is on American History. As seniors they are required to study the problems of contemporary society and these pertaining to American democracy. A great deal of emphasis is placed on ecology throughout the Social Studies experience. With the addition this year of Henry Legere's Asian Studies, ambitious students have discovered the reasons behind the gap that exists between the Oriental and Western cultures. Humanities courses seek to develop in the student a better understanding of human expression with the acquisition of representative art and musical equipment that provides a cultural atmosphere.

FL Starts Courses

Foreign Language, this year under the direction of Selwyn Littleworth, continued to provide the traditional classes in Spanish, French, German and Latin at all levels. At the same time the department further developed and implemented several innovative courses. Its program in ESL, (English as a Second Language), first implemented in the 1969-70 school year was intensified. It is a program of vital importance at Poly due to the high ratio of students of recent immigration into the United States that attend this school. Under the tutelage of Arthur Alvarado, the ESL program gives students from Europe, Asia, The Middle East and Latin America the opportunity to learn the basic skills of English that are necessary for effective communication in this country. A program in Bilingual Studies, a course of study geared to meet the needs, English-Spanish speakers was also implemented by the department. It was taught by Arthur Valenzuela. For academic students Foreign Language provided a course in Comparative Literature. Organized and taught by Nancy Gray, this course of study introduces students to the work of world's best writers both in translation and in the original.

Other courses included auto shop and auto vocations, and shop math, which gave students opportunities to learn how math can be of vital importance in industry. # Math Adds "Poly" to "tech"

"Polytechnic" comes from two Greek words meaning "many" and "art" and has come to mean, "of or providing instruction in many scientific and technical subjects". The many math classes offered at Poly is one reason the school is called Polytechnic. They are general math, slide rule, advanced math, algebra, geometry, intermediate algebra and trigonometry, and computer math. Also offered to qualified seniors is calculus, a college course. Another function of the math curriculum is sponsoring the Math Club. The purpose of this club is to participate in math competitions with other high schools throughout Southern California. They also put on a math competition for junior highs feeding into Poly. The Math Club was designed to get students more interested in mathematics by giving them a more complicated types of problems than they would get in the regular courses. So Poly's math department truly is "polytechnic."

Budgets Were Lower Science Load Heavy

Budget cuts in the District plus demands of SB-1 provided a "heavy" year for teachers of science at Poly. Still, inspite of bigger classes, this department met all requirements. Biology and physical science classes instructed students in basic principles and provided backgrounds for further study. Skilled students continued in advanced Chemistry and Physics and other courses prerequisite to college. These classes varied their programs between regular classwork and lab assignments.

The training objectives of this program are to introduce the student to the psychology of leadership in military and civilian life and the necessity for responsiveness to constituted authority in both environments.

This years ROTC has participated in such events as the Veterans Day Parade, Drill Competition against other high schools, leadership camp, General Inspection, awards ceremony, and the annual military ball.

To provide a saleable skill for each high school graduate has long been a goal of the Long Beach Unified School District. At Poly, as elsewhere, fulfillment of this mission has traditionally been a function of the Business and Industrial Arts Departments. However, in the last two years, other departments have become involved in this critical aspect of education, especially at Poly. Science has implemented two exciting and innovative courses. In the Nursing Class under Anne Richie, the theoretical aspects of this field have been stressed, and students have been working at a local hospital, helping care for patients under the most realistic conditions possible. Marcelin Fortain's class in medical technology has also followed suit, going from the class to work under actual field conditions in local hospitals. Business has extended its scope by implementing classes in the clerical and administrative aspects of hospital work. This class is under the tutelage of Jane King. Home Economics is now in its second year of operation of its Food Service Class, one designed to introduce students to the realities of restaurant work and management.

Ethnic Studies Integral in Poly Curriculum

All people seek identity. They need to know who and what they are, in order that life have a full meaning. It is role of education to provide opportunities for richer, fuller lives. Thus it becomes the obligation of education to provide opportunities for everyone to establish his identity. This has been happening at Poly for a long time.

For several years courses in Black History and Black literature have been offered at Poly. Mexican-American and other Minorities History was introduced at Poly in 1969. The program in ethnic studies again expanded this year.

Henry Legere implemented a class in Asian Studies. A course in bilingual-bicultural studies in Spanish was begun by Arthur Valenzuela, and David Thomas organized an innovative program in Mexican Art and Culture.

However, it is not enough for us to know ourselves. These ethnic classes, then, are not restricted areas solely for Blacks or Chicanos or students of Asian backgrounds. They are open to all interested students. Let's put it this way: We know ourselves and we got to know each other.

Is it really true? Blondes have more fun than anybody in Bilingual? Ask Jana.

STUDENT ACTIVITIES

Fall Government Starts Year of Change

Early within the Fall semester, excitement brewed within Student Government. It was Poly's 75th anniversary, and special activities needed to be planned. Kay Pilcher and Paul Lambrakis took charge of honoring past graduates each week. The Honor Grad activity was continued throughout the year after approval was granted by Long Beach's City Council. Student Government then proceeded to publish the 75th anniversary edition of the football program, where famous athletes like Earl McCollough and Gene Washington were represented. Under the guidance of the Activities Director Ross Shickler and Student Body President Alvin Bernstein, preliminary Homecoming activities began. The theme "Jonathan hops down memory lane" was adopted. Homecoming day was the culmination of months of planning and hard work. This festive occasion was a milestone in Poly's history. When the excitement died down, Commission evaluated Homecoming and made a series of revisions on the activities. The Queen and Court, the issue that divides the campus each fall, were abolished. Student Government's last major action was to enlarge Spring Commission to provide ample representation within the Poly Student Body.

"Action" Key Word for Spring Government

"Action" was the name of the game for Spring Student Government. Starting with larger Commission, more students were represented. It undertook six important activities. Most important was the revision of the constitution, a move that revised archaic rules still in effect at Poly. Requirements for Gold "L" were also revised. Spring Government made a concerted effort to establish better communications with the student body at large by implementing "Government Week", during which the jobs and duties of various officers were explained. Pictures of the commissioners along with an article were published in the "High Life". Ecological concern was expressed by the establishment of "Earth Week". The Inter-cultural Fair provided students of "poly-ethnic" Polytechnic the opportunity to learn the cultural values of others on campus. Plans were laid for a Student Bill of Rights, a document which will inform students of their rights in regards to school regulations.

Girls' League Was on the Move and "Groovy"

As usual, the spirited gals in Girls' League were on the move. At the top of their activities the first semester were the Sophomore Breakfast and the Pizza Party. They also organized bagel and candy sales. At Homecoming, Girls' League carried much of the responsibility of organizing activities. Their display won honorable mention in overall judging. Fall semester activities were concluded with the drive for gift tags for the Mental Health Foundation and a twenty-five dollar donation to the Independent-Press Telegram Christmas Fund.

"You're so groovy, really move me and your smile is so divine . . ." were the lyrics to which Girls' League started the second semester.

Throughout the evolution of Poly, many traditions have been perpetrated and many have died. Within the last few years Boys' League has fallen prey to male apathy. The Fall Semester saw fresh officers with new and creative plans. Many meetings were scheduled, but seldom did ten people show up. Because of lack of participation, talent shows, film forums and charity drives never passed the planning stage. The second semester, though, brought bright prospects for salvaging Boys' League to its formal status. Intramural Basketball games were organized on Saturdays. Candy sales and various service projects added to the League's activities. Boys' League sponsored an inter-school forum to close its activities for the year. With the increasing trend toward relevance, Boys' League sees an optimistic future ahead.

High Life Struggles to Get the News

A cry of agony vibrates throughout the land of 805. Has someone been injured? No. Another page is being made up. And with each page make-up problems are born. Problems that require stories to be cut, lengthened, changed and rewritten.

From the initial birth of an idea to the public reading one runs an obstacle course. The first sandtrap is called the mind stall. When one's mind is stalled ideas cannot flow freely. But there are deadlines to meet and consequently no one can afford a mind stall. Still, people are afflicted by these lapses of imagination. Reporters must scour the campus until an idea crystallizes.

With almost an air of arrogance one hazily surrenders a still unshredded masterpiece. A reporter cannot begin to imagine the horrors which his ideas must transcend. These horrors mainly consist in the additional work that must be put into a story. Some stories are not fully developed. There are those that are cluttered with nonessentials. Even a perfect story, which has yet to be written, is subject to revision.

And yet editors, advisors and print shops cannot be held fully responsible. For they have their own headaches. Editors must juggle and manipulate inches, ideas and pictures. Everything must fit onto fourteen by ten inch boxes. There can be absolutely no overlaps and no empty spaces. Advisors have the ever pressing job of censorship. Also, a communication gap seems to exist between the advanced journalism class and the advanced print class.

Flowers for Algernon Opens a Varied Year for Drama

The main drama production this year was "Flowers for Algernon" This sensitive, involving play was executed by the actors with a remarkable degree of maturity and finesse.

David Hillbrand, the undisputed star of the play carried out his role of Charlie Gordon in the finest of acting traditions. Charlie was a moron, quickly turned genius, who regresses back to the stage of moron and eventual death. The strongest characters in the play were Alice Kinnian, Roberta Seldon, Mrs. Donner, Little and Teenage Charlie and Charlie's mother played by Mindy Hodges, Pam Jenkins, Char de Coudres, John Schug and Jeri Hughes, respectively.
The production itself presented a new problem to the Poly stage crew: there was no faculty experienced in stage lighting and design. The entire technical end of the production depended completely upon students who had been on stage crew the previous year. The problem was compounded by the fact that "Flowers" had so many scene changes and lighting cues that it was impossible to simply "throw a switch and put up some furniture".

The production involved twelve sound cues, twenty-five scene changes and eighty-five light cues, which is no "flip of a switch". The play was a learning experience for those backstage as well as entertainment for those viewing it.

Well Trained '71 Orchestra Follows Tradition of Fin

Poly's orchestra carried on the old tradition of fine music produced by good and well trained musicians again this year. The Fall Concert started off a very busy but rewarding season. The Christmas Concert soon afterwards was the second in a series of performances. This concert was performed in the evening as well as at two assemblies during the day. The year was concluded with the annual Spring Concert.

Outstanding musicians included Nancy Harmon, violin; Cyndi Otsuki, cello; Kenji Ota, viola; Sandra Neal, string bass. Under the direction of Robert Dill, the orchestra highlighted its concerts with challenging selections such as The Unfinished Symphony by Schubert and Haydn's London Symphony.

The Poly Chorale, Poly's most select and highly polished performing vocal group made an outstanding contribution to the music life of both the student body and the surrounding community. They have been enthusiastically received by all audiences. In addition to our traditional performances at Poly, the Fall Concert, Christmas Concert and assemblies, they have performed for the Long Beach Orchid Society, Lincoln Elementary School, and the Downtown Optimists Club. As a part of their community Christmas contribution, the Chorale was invited to sing carols aboard a 66 foot ketch, the Aegean Set, as it represented the L. B. Yacht Club in the Naples Christmas Boat Parade. Also on the evening of December 20th, they sang for members of the Yacht Club and again were enthusiastically received.

Long Beach Pep Generates Spirit in Victory or Loss

"We're loyal to you Long Beach High" is the first line of our school song. This song has been sung many times with a great variety of tones. Each different tone has reflected the enthusiasm and dismay in our school spirit.

It is very easy to be loyal when one is winning. The singing, shouting and cheering are the most natural things in the world when the scoreboard is indicative of one's great athletic prowess, as it has been in past years.

But have you ever tried to be cheerful when the chips are down and you have been dealt defeat game after game. If you were a member of Song and Flag, a Polyette or a Cheerleader you tried. And the majority of our pep squads succeeded in this feat.

This is not to say that they weren't ever depressed or disappointed. No one likes to lose! Yet, the admirable qualities of Poly's pep squads continually and without faltering shone through. Pride or a satisfaction in one's achievements is the first and foremost of these qualities. Pride cannot be instilled like new plumbing. It must come from the heart and the soul with deep sincerity.

"We're from Poly High School, couldn't be prouder!" "If you can't hear us we'll yell a little louder!" And they did yell louder, all season long. They had a job to do and they did it well. A tremendous amount of work went into the routines. To take several different people and try to get them to do the same thing at the same time is a bit trying. The steps aren't just thrown together like the latest dance step.

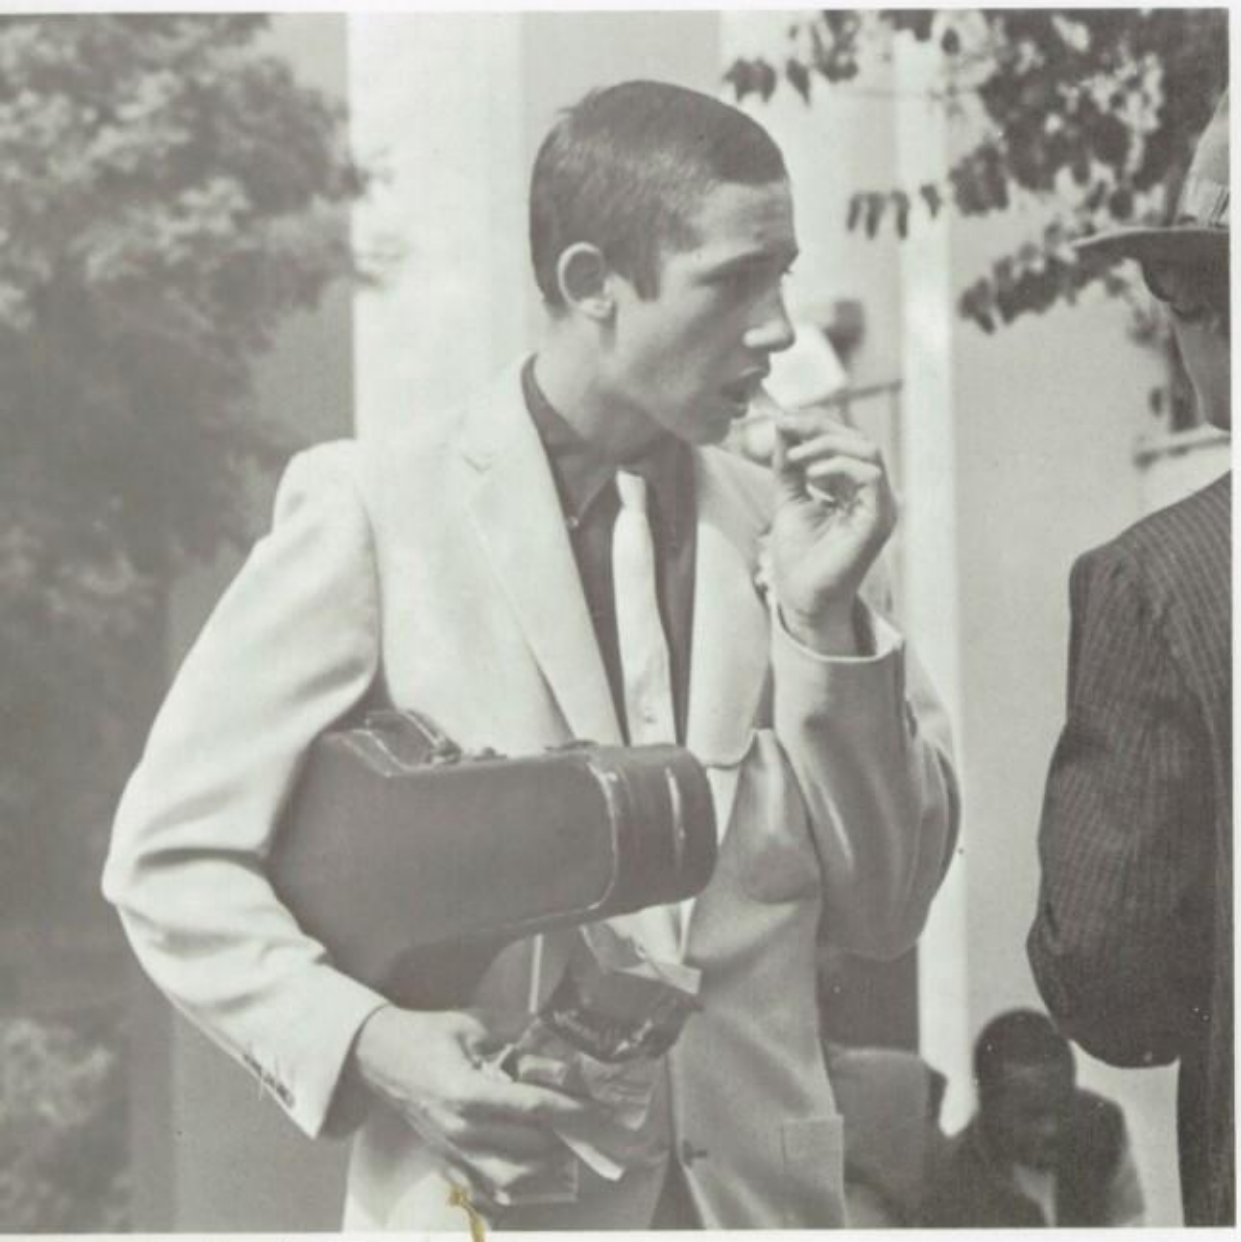
Homecoming Week Blends the Bitter and Sweet

The funeral cortege for poor, lost Lancer



Cool dude of Roaring '20s

Seventy-five years is a long time in the life of any jackrabbit, but on the morning of October 19, Jonathan emerged strong, healthy and bearing a new coat of fur from the giant birthday cake set on the facade of the Administration Building. Polyettes and Song and Flag joined together to sing "Put Another Candle on Your Birthday Cake" to Jonathan.

Homecoming Week had begun at Poly.

On Wednesday morning, a procession of long-faced undertakers escorted the coffin of a Lakewood Lancer to the front of the Administration Building where "preacher" James Johnson read the eulogy and John Schug read the letter from the Lancer's body. During the funeral service, Polyites wept bitter tears, sad about the death of the poor Lancer.

Dress-up Day was held Thursday. Costumes went back through Poly's history. A contest was held after school to choose the best. Shirley Wilson and Don Chittenden clad in old-fashioned outfits carried away first place.

The "Big Day", Friday, finally arrived. It was gloomy, wet, rainy—to everyone's dismay. It was especially dismal for those who arrived on campus as early as 6:00 A.M. to set up the club displays on the theme: "Jonathan Hops Down Memory Lane." Said displays were soon worse for the wear. They sagged. They drooped. And it kept right on raining. In spite of all obstacles Caprice's display managed to carry away first.

Once again it was Alumni Day, as old grads arrived to visit friends, observe the assemblies and relive their years at Poly. Ex-Song and Flag girls and ex-Cheerleaders added excitement to the assemblies. Poly Cross Country and Track Coach Ron Allice was the guest speaker. The Homecoming Court, Cheryl Burns, Nancy Rukes, Meta Vanderwerff, Carol Williams and the escorts Dale Adams, Scott McCollister, Craig Arihara, Ricky Drake and Larry Myers rode to the game in antique Cadillacs and Model T's. Alvin Bernstein, clad in his football uniform, crowned Queen Diane Wilson.

Yet the day ended in sadness. Lakewood won the football game.

SPORTS

LONG BE

In the Past and Present Poly

The earthquake of '33 was caused by the shifting of the earth due to the weight of athletic trophies amassed by Poly. There is enough "trophy brass" around Poly to sink the Queen Mary. If all the athletic trophies of Poly High were lined in a row, they would reach from here to Ricketts, Iowa, and back.

Rumors? Exaggerations? Maybe. Yet the fact remains that Long Beach Poly has won more athletic honors than any other high school in California. State championships: No less than 33 CIF championships! League championships in such numbers that it would take reams to mention. For over sixty years the Green and Gold has struck terror into the hearts of its opponents. Championships are won by outstanding teams and outstanding athletes. Gene Washington, Earl McCollough, Chuck Moore, John Rambo, Billy Jean Moffitt, Martha Watson . . . professional athletics are studded with ex-Poly stars.

The trophies pictured above represent the most frequently won titles by Poly, Moore League plaques, as well as perpetual trophies. In the middle of the picture is the coveted CIF athlete of the Year Trophy, last awarded to Earl McCollough.

Flanking this trophy are representatives of each of Poly's varsity teams. They were selected by their teams, their coaches and the Caerulea staff as the best representatives of their respective sports. Left to right, water polo is represented by Alan Miki, All-City performer as a junior and most improved on the team. Steve Feldman, most valuable swimmer, represents his sport. Runnerup in CIF as a sophomore, Joe Edles poses as the top tennis player, and Steve Higuera represents baseball due to his consistent play last spring. Joe Goodin stands in for track due to his versatility as a sprinter, while David Maxson, a two-year varsity player and strong scorer, represents basketball. Wrestling and Cross Country are represented by Mark McGeeHee and David Cottrell respectively. Both athletes competed in CIF, with Cottrell gaining All-City and All Moore League awards as a sophomore. Also a CIF finalist, Jim Walker stands in for golf, next to Uiva Tuliau, a three-year varsity football player. Representing gymnastics is James Hargrove, a returning letterman from last year's team . . . This group is well representative of the tradition of Poly athletic excellence.

Inexperience, Murderous Schedule Destroy Rabbits

Robert Willis stops Lakewood receiver

It was a long dry year for Poly football, in fact one of the driest years in the Jackrabbit annals. The causes are easy to trace. Inexperience was probably the main one, as Phil Santia fielded a squad with more than its share of juniors and sophomores. Add to this the problem of leadership in coaching. Due to budget adjustments in the district, Santia began the season as the sole and only coach at Poly and he had to build his staff from scratch. To cap Poly's woes, the Jackrabbits faced a murderous schedule, one in which they tangled with no less than six top ten C.I.F. rated teams.

Poly's inexperience really showed in the encounter with Redlands at Anaheim Stadium. It brought disaster. Unable to move the ball against a Redlands squad that knew what football is all about, the green and gold succumbed 27-0.

A week later Poly returned from defeat to whip the Westminster Lions 22-20 on their home field. This game saw Melvin Jackson slash through the Westminster defense to score two of the winning touchdowns. But things went on the blink again against St. Paul.

Jordan was able to defeat Long Beach Poly for the first time since 1957 to the tune of 17-14. Leo Giles sparked the Poly offense with the aid of Ken Washington. Penalties, mistakes, bad breaks in general cost Poly the game. The Rabbits disappointed the 1970 Homecoming crowd by losing to Lakewood 27-0.

The following Friday Poly gave Wilson, another CIF rated team, the scare of its life. The green and gold glittered in the first half. A pass from Ken Washington to James Warren netted six. Then Washington carried for another score. Poly led 12-6 at the half of the "Big Game." Still, the strong, determined Bruins were not to be denied, winning finally, 19-12.

JV's Break Even

Though the J.V.'s broke even this year with a four-four-one record, the season went remarkably well. Half of the team were sophomores. A Hayes, T. Hill, A. Howard, and Grove were the outstanding players.

Hayes, voted best back, gained more than three hundred yards. In one game alone he ran for 134.

Hill, one of the outstanding quarterbacks threw touchdown passes of twenty to seventy yards during the season.

Howard led a fired-up defense in secondary. He picked off twenty-five unassisted tackles.

Grove led the defensive line.

Bees Lose 4-5

teve Cole (79) pursues Wilson ball carrier.

Although the Bees lost more than they won, they were able to defeat the better teams among those encountered. "Ruggedness" was the name of the game with the Bees as many players were ready, willing and able to go both ways. Top match performers among the backs were Andre Saucier, Mack Tsunawaki, and Charles Johnson. Standout linemen were Steve Cole, Brian Hill, and Warren Bradshaw. The big names that fell to the mighty Bees were St. Paul, Servite, Wilson and El Rancho.

Cross-Country Loses Crucials

Varsity Cross Country began the season with makings of another championship team. But due to inexperience, it suffered losses in the crucial meets and ended up 4th place in the league with a 2-3 record. The team was led by junior David Cottrell, Moore League champion, as well as All-League and All-City, co-captain Scott Thomas and All-League runner, Glen Olsen. The varsity team also contained two outstanding sophomores, Rick McArdle and Paul Sosnowski who give promise to next year's team.

Running as an individual, David Cottrell competed in the CIF prelims and placed fourth in his heat qualifying for the finals, where he finished in the top ten of a fiercely competitive race. Thus ending a frustrating cross country season.

The J. V. team, composed of nearly all juniors and sophomores, finished the season with a 4-1 record and 2nd place. Strong performances were contributed by Paul Keintz, Vernon Feliciano, and Dewayne Stamps.

Most Improved on the squad was Robert Johnson.

Hares Cop 3rd Place in Moore Basket "Hassle"

When the smoke of basketball wars settled Poly was in 3rd place in Moore League competition. But this in no way tells the story of how competition went. It was a question of top notch teams knocking each other out of competition. Persistent Wilson ended up winning the championship, but it could have been Lakewood or Poly or Millikan. These teams could meet on any given night and play C.I.F. championship type of basketball. Heartbreakers and upsets determined the outcome. Poly's ability was underestimated. The rabbits lacked size. Yet most games were lost by very narrow margins—Lakewood 73-72, Wilson 56-53, Torrance 68-66, Ramona 68-66, and, so it went.

Players who stood out during the season were Al Hall, and forwards David Hillman and Dave Maxson. Hall ended the season as 3rd highest scorer in Moore League competition, while Hillman and Maxson went the season providing Poly's scoring and rebounding. In tough situations the rabbits depended on Mike Calderia and center, Joe Scott to provide a smooth running quintet.

The young jackrabbits won the second place trophy in the Rolling Hills Tourney and won the consolation trophy in the Los Alamitos tourney.

This year's team leaders were Marion Lee, Most Valuable Player; Dale Dillion, Best Defensive Player; and Capt. Randy Ray. Other team leaders were Tyrone Spears, Bruce Jackson, Kenny Washington, Mike Moore and James Royal.

Wrestlers Win in Spite of Tough Odds

This year's varsity wrestling team, lacking experience in the lightweights, nevertheless proved to be one of the most powerful teams in the Moore League. Forfeiting in the 106 weight class, the varsity still upset Wilson in the League Finals, and soundly defeated Jordan. Leading the team was Mark McGeehee, Nino Christiano and Mark Tsunawaki. Tsunawaki, who captured first place in the League Finals, will return next year along with seven varsity lettermen, including future prospects: Rick Dollar, Nathan Richardson and Ricky Shorts.

As the wrestling team of 1971 upheld Poly's pride, the teams in the very near future will, without a doubt, add glory and respect for Poly wrestling and sports in general in the years to come.

Swimming Is Off to Good Season

Swimming was off and winning as the 1971 campaign got underway, and the prospects for a successful season look bright. This is due to the efforts and talents of a stellar varsity led by Steve Feldman, Dan Garrett, Alan Miki, Steve Hausmann and John Burt. Supporting them are two "Super swimmers", Stan Bork and Mark Ouimette. The record thus far speaks for itself. The swimmers have met and defeated some of the best the C.I.F. has to offer. In doing so, no less than sixteen school records have been obliterated by the '71 squad. Talent, determination dedication seem to be the key words in aquatics this year, according to coach Miller.

Speedy Rabbits Run to 3rd Moore Crown In A Row

am Hill strides to victory

At the beginning, everyone "in the know" about track thought of this season as a "building" year due to the loss of so many outstanding athletes from last year's team. Yet, as the season progressed it became apparent that this year's team was a determined group of hard competitors. After victories over Muir, 71-36, and Pasadena, 67-40, the Rabbits faced their stiffest test against Centennial, a "super team". Racing on the opposition's track, Poly chased Centennial down to the wire and last race, only to lose by a narrow margin of 64-54. The Jackrabbits surprised everyone by taking first place in the Southern Counties Invitational meet in Huntington Beach, outscoring the CIF's finest teams. Entering Moore League competition, Poly looks like the team to beat for the crown, the third consecutive League championship. Consider the material. Leading the sprinters are Leonard Ross (9.9), Ricky Ivey (10.0), and quarter-miler Sam Hill (49.6). The best long jumper is Tony Brown (24'4") and high-jumper Carl Miles has cleared 6'8". The team also has one of the CIF's finest 440 and mile relay teams. The single most beneficial asset that the Poly track team possesses is its desire to win and its refusal to be merely a "building" team.

As the season progressed, so did the team's momentum. Poly soundly defeated all opposition and gained its third consecutive Moore League title. The season produced such fine marks as a 42.1 quarter relay by Warren, Ross, Ivey and Brown; a 1.57.3 half mile by sophomore Elvis Howard; a 14.1 120 high hurdles by League champion James Royal; and a best-in-the-nation jump of 25'2" by Tony Brown. Poly also led the League in the number of CIF qualifiers. With these athletes Poly Track CIF competition with a championship as the final goal.

Gymnastics, which at Poly does not draw as large a crowd as expected is a sport in which the individual attempts to perform at his physical peak. He is judged on skill and coordination; the basis of the judging being A (elementary), B (harder), C (very difficult), T (transitional). The judge views the athlete's performance and awards him the number of points earned.

The year's team was headed by two juniors, Pat LaRue and Frank Catamerisios. Both were members of last year's team.

Golf Opens Promising Season

With the nucleus of fine returning lettermen from last year, the 1971 Golf Team has the potential of becoming one of the league contenders in the Moore League. This year's squad is made up of four seniors and one junior. Although there is depth on Poly's team, it seems that all teams in the league look strong. Key players for a successful season will be Jeremmy Evans, Clint Owen, Matt Murphy, John Willhoit, Jim Walker and Jim Craig.

On the Junior Varsity, players who have much promise are Dave Morgan, Steve Hastings, Dave Simcox, Jon Lee, Keith Matoi and John Thompson.

The goal this year will be to play together as a team and get everyone to play to his potential.

Tennis Vies for Moore Top Honors

This year's Varsity Team is said by Coach Trutanich to be the finest team in Poly's history. It is comprised of hard working individuals, dedicated to their sport, who are striving to lead Poly to its first Varsity Tennis Championship.

Led by last year's C.I.F. runner-up Joe Edles, the team opened up the Moore League season with convincing victories over Jordan and Lakewood. These victories show the team's potential for the championship since last year's team was defeated by both of these schools.

Spearheading the drive to a possible league title will be the play of our strong singles comprised of aces John Rhynerson, Ricky Wong, Allen VerSteeg and Bill Koran. The doubles will be highlighted by the play of Sonny Nafarrete and Martin Shimamoto.

Baseball Struggles With Inexperience

Led by new coach, Ardie Boyd, the Varsity Baseball team approached the spring season with the goal of a CIF playoff berth. Coach Boyd brought with him a new winning attitude, despite the fact that the team had certain definite weaknesses. One of these is a lack of consistent quality pitching. Only Glenn Ogawa is back from last year's pitching staff. The team is also comprised of mainly juniors up from the Junior Varsity who don't have varsity experience. The team was headed by returning lettermen Pat O'Sullivan and Steve Higuera with the assistance of Leon Washington, Gary Price and Gene Kemmerer. O'Sullivan and Washington were among the leading batters of the Moore League.

As the league competition began, the team suffered early season losses to Jordan, Lakewood and Wilson before its first victory over El Rancho. Their morale boosted by this victory, they now challenge the rest of the league competitors.

He was chosen on the merit of his performance in three varsity sports: football, basketball and track. In both football and basketball, he was a starter and in track, he competed as a high jumper.

Talking about women's lib . . . What about sports? The gals work and compete as hard as the guys, but they get very little glory. Imagine football without Polyettes, cheer leaders, band, and basketball without a gym full of rooters, or, for that matter, without a gym. But what the girls lack in glory they make up in enthusiasm and in numbers. This year somewhere between 250 to 300 girls participated in GAA and in these sports: Touchdown, Tennis, Basketball, Volleyball, Badminton, Swimming, and Softball.

Under the overall supervision of Mary Todd, GAA had its ups and its downs in competition against other schools. In Touchdown, coached by Linda Vieth, the A's scored 1-2 record while the B's won them all. In Volleyball, again coached by Miss Vieth, the A's and the B's both took second in the city. Basketball is still in progress. In the Spring sports yet to come much is expected of the determined and aggressive B's.

Since man is gregarious, he is seldom seen without a band of fellow humans. This is a trait at Poly. These bands, to make things official, were named organizations, or, much more preferred, clubs. They cater similar interests and produce activities that result in fun, education and service to the school and community.

Organizations began with Poly's first principal who chartered them with specific services intended. What greater services than sales? For those of you who only recognize clubs by their members masquerading as "nomad bagel" and "Berry pop" salesmen, you are regarding one of the most recent solutions to famine in the early hours of school. Sales make the loot, too.

Now, on a more serious vein . . . One important reason for clubs is to get students active and involved. Another one is to provide opportunities for students to make friends and allow them to express their talents and engage in their interests. These reasons should make students feel proud to join any one of the many clubs at Poly and serve it to the fullest.

Just exactly who and why is that Polyite ushering you to your seat? Why, it's a member of our very own Poly's Ushers Club, naturally. And they do it not just for Gold 'L' points, but because when it comes to ushering they're ready to be at service, at film forums, lectures, and concerts.

Project Tutor enables Poly students with tutor potential to help out elementary school children who are behind in their classes. Besides developing better reading skills, spelling, and arithmetic skills, Project Tutor also develops everlasting friendship between the ever inquisitive student and the indefatigable tutor.

Letterman's Council promotes unity and spirit among all Poly athletes. Their activities this year consisted of choosing and presenting athlete of the week awards and selling programs.

Music Arts Society unites musically inclined students and extends their interests in music by taking part in attending concerts, listening to records, and discussing all worthwhile musical topics.

Caprice, welfare and leadership club has contributed much to the community by collecting for the United Crusade and March of Dimes. Sending Christmas cards to overseas servicemen, and caroling at convalescent hospitals it has gladdened many a sad heart.

Inter-Club Council serves as a communication link between the student body and the student government. It also provides a union of all campus organizations as well as a channel to better student government. This year's Homecoming displays and multicultural affairs were supervised and evaluated by Inter-Club Council.

Math Club—Major event for Math Club this year was Math Field Day, a contest among various junior high schools on a mathematical framework. It was of course quite enjoyable and most successful.

Leo Club, sponsored by Lions Club, has contributed their services in local projects as well as taking an expedition to reseed forest fire areas and collecting for the March of Dimes.

German Club, designed for German students and those interested in the German way of life, has this past year dined exquisitely at a Hofbrau, supported a needy family, sold hundreds of candy apples, and camped high in the mountains for three days.

Art Gallery Club is the ingenious little organization that sets up and presents student work in the Art Gallery. They were responsible for these past year's faculty Christmas, Survey of Creative Arts, Black History and Culture, Chicano, and one man shows.

They have also participated in a tentative project to aid an orphanage school in Tijuana by collecting donations and purchasing clothing, and supplies. # AFS Hosts Marie

This year, American Field Service has presented us with the pleasures of having Marie Visconti, a student from France, here at Poly. Through AFS Marie has become acquainted with the contrasts between her own homeland and the United States. Along with this, she has become familiar with the tantalizing Poly hot dogs and hamburgers, not to mention jello. AFS members have increased their knowledge of other countries by attending programs like "Christmas in Other Lands," held at Jordan this year and by partaking in a Welcoming Picnic and potluck dinner with students from different lands.

STERS: Chris Cole, Long Beach, U.S.A. and Marie Visconti, Lyons, ance.

Over 100 Students Meet Stiff C. S. F. Specs

The California Scholarship Federation is strictly a club which recognizes those students who have excelled academically. Under these basic guidelines C.S.F. requires its members to attain ten points per semester, an "A" receives three points and a "B" one. With an enrollment of over one hundred members, C.S.F. is "the largest conglomeration of intelligent characters in the school." C.S.F. sponsored fortune cookie, candy and chocolate bar sales to provide money for field trips. The first was an excursion to Cal State Long Beach for a Renaissance Fair. The second was the annual Honors Day at Long Beach City College.

Students, Faculty Honor "Classiest" Classified

Pat Sillvers

Congratulations on a job well done! Poly students and faculty appreciate your help in making our school a great one. Hard work, dedication, these things really come through during the grind each day. Typing, record keeping, long hours over the steam table in the cafeteria, or keeping up with the equipment in the gym. It all spells hard work, and we appreciate it.

Business Manager Hilary Roberts

"V" and "Omar" correct a Mickey Mouse situation.

We Made It!!

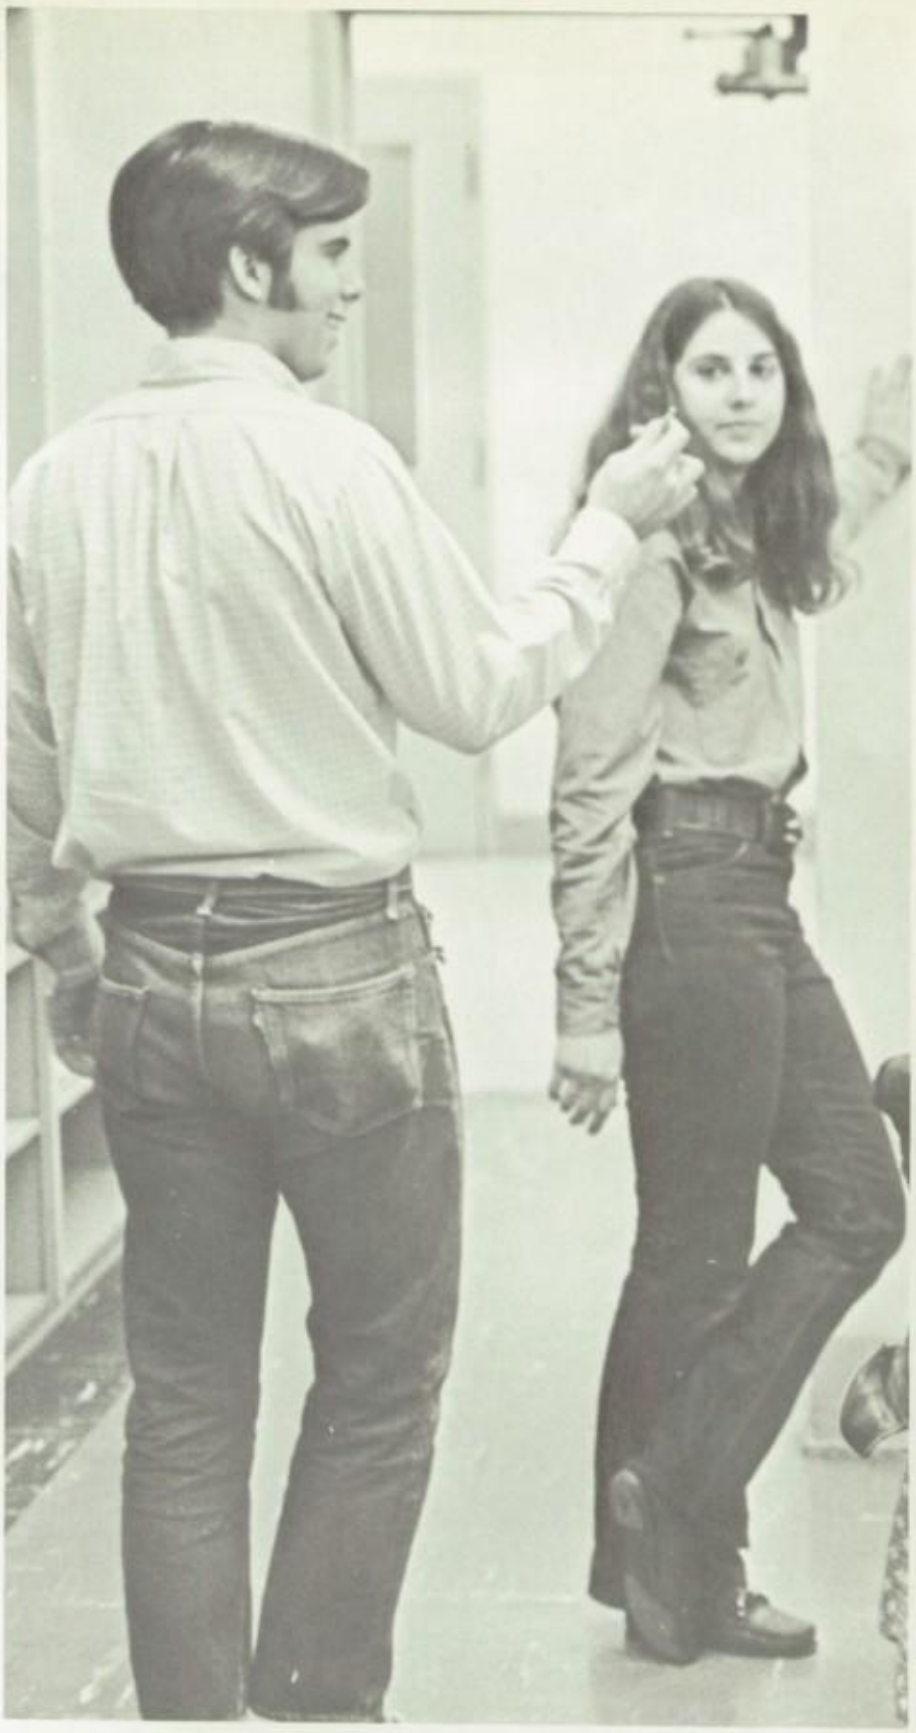
Picture this: two weeks left to the final deadline and seventy-nine pages to complete. If you don't know the insurmountable odds facing the staff, imagine the Poly basketball team playing the Lakers —and winning. Under the guidance of Art Valenzuela as Advisor, and Sheldon Tarre as Editor, the inexperienced but dedicated Caerulea staff was able to overcome the tremendous pressure on them. Without the brilliant help of Morris Studios and Frey Photos, the staff would have been unable to complete their task. The conception of this year's theme really began some seventy-five years ago but never crystalized until October of 1971. The staff of Caerulea '71 has tried to represent all parts of Poly and blend it together in one book.



Historical Staff, Bob Rainey and Kay Pilcher, toy with the past.

Julie Scholar, Most Valuable, grins while conversing on the telephone.

Poly Faces the Future — Its Challenge

and Hope

The long day wanes; the slow moon climbs; the deep
Moans round with many voices. Come, my friends
'Tis not too late to seek a newer world.
Push off, and sitting well in order smite
The sounding furrows; for my purpose holds
To sail beyond the sunset, and the paths
Of all the western stars, until I die.
It may be that the gulfs will wash us down;
It may be we shall touch the Happy Isles . . .
And see the great Achilles, whom we knew.
Though much is taken, much abides; and though
We are not now that strength which in old days
Moved earth and heaven, that which we are, we are
One equal temper of heroic hearts,
Made weak by time and fate, but strong in will
To strive, to seek, to find, and not to yield.

Tennyson
